

WAY TO AMERICA

HOW TO REACH THE DREAMLAND?

The dream of many people now-a-days is to make it to the United States of America, the land of unending opportunities. Every year the number of people going to the U.S. for either higher studies or in pursuit of a bright career has been increasing. US never says 'no' to the genuine people who are eager to show their mettle. But how to go? What are the procedures? What are the risks that one may have to face if the well laid out procedures are not followed? Many may be aware that one needs a visa to go to the US. Is it just that? No, there is much more than meets the eye. One should know clearly what visa for what purpose. Begin your journey with this question before embarking upon a plan to rush to the US. For the benefit of those people who are in need of information about visa procedures, job situation, and many more things about America, SREERASTU wishes to make the best efforts to get to the bottom of the issue in an effort to help the readers.

What is a visa?

One needs a visa to enter United States of America.

There are two categories of U.S. visas: Immigrant and nonimmigrant. Non-immigrant visas are for people with permanent residence outside the U.S. but wish to be in the U.S. on a temporary basis. It could be for tourism, business, temporary work, study or medical treatment or anything. Immigrant visas are for people who intend to live permanently in the U.S. A visa does not grant automatic permit entry to the U.S. It only indicates that a U.S. consular officer has reviewed your application, and that the officer has determined you are eligible to apply for entry to the country for a specific purpose. There are different visa categories for different people who wish to go to the US for different purposes.

Effective November 16, 2005 the visa fees for Indians are:

Non-immigrant visa application fee: Rs 4,600.00

Non-immigrant visa issuance fee: Rs 2,300.00

The visa application fee is non-refundable whereas the visa issuance fee is paid only upon the issuance.
